

Can you name your 5 senses? How do you use your senses to experience something?

Use your ears, eyes, nose, mouth, and hands to find rhythm in the park.

The drummer in the story uses buckets as drums. What else can you use as musical instruments?

Can you think of something you might see every day and don't notice? What might you see if you look closely and listen?

Throughout the book words are repeated to create a different rhythm.

Example: blink-blink-blink.

Can you make your own rhythm?

Create a musical instrument

Supplies :

Paper Plate

Glue or Stapler

Markers or crayons

Something to make noise - beans, dry pasta or rice

Step 1: Decorate the bottom/outside of the plates

Step 2: Glue or staple all around the plate, leaving a small opening.

Step 3: Fill up the combined plates with beans, rice or pasta.

Step 4: Make your own rhythm.

Step 5: Take a picture of your art and send it to kidsdesk@billingsmt.gov or share on social media with #BPLstorytrailcraft

If you don't have a paper plate find a plastic container with lid, like a Tupperware, fill it with a noisemaker and use it as a shaker!
