INTRODUCTORY.

The first volume of the Billings City Directory is here-with submitted to the public, and, in the canvass for names, data, etc., neither labor nor expense has been spared to make this work complete, reliable and worthy the name of Directory. We do not claim our work absolutely free from errors, as no work of this kind has ever reached the acme of perfection. No one unacquainted with the arduous task of compiling such data can have a proper conception of the labor required to make an authentic city directory. We feel confident however, that this work will be found as near correct as any of the kind can be made, and, with this feeling it is submitted to the criticism of a fair-minded public, and especially to the enterprising citizens who have aided us with their financial support, do we respectfully dedicate this, the first city directory of the city of Billings, Montana.

Among one of the absolute necessities relative to a city, the city directory may clearly be classed as an important one, not only of its practical demands in the numerous branches of daily pursuits and general uses to which it is put, but it has become the index of the enterprise and of the commercial and professional interests in its locality; a budget of facts are recorded upon its pages, and, it is the true record which shows the growth and progress of a city from year to year.

We tender our sincere thanks to the public for the uniform courtesy that has been shown us in our work and wishing every patron continued success and prosperity, we subscribe ourselves,

Very truly yours,

CONCERNING STREETS.

The N. P. railway, running east and west, is the dividing line of all streets running north and south. All thoroughfares running east and west are denominated avenues, and those north and south are called streets. Minnesota is the next avenue south of railway; then comes 1st ave south, 2nd ave south, etc. North of railway is Montana ave, 1st ave north, 2nd ave north, etc. Streets begin with First, at eastern limits, and are consecutively numbered to western limits. They are called north and south streets, respectively, as they run in either of these directions from the railway track. The decimal system of numbering is used—one hundred to each block. For example, 20 South 1st st would be between Minnesota and 1st ave south; and 2622 Montana ave would be between 26th and 27th sts north.
