INTRODUCTION

1917

This is the ninth edition of R. L. Polk & Co.'s Billings City Directory, including all of Yellowstone County, also Red Lodge and Carbon Counties, Columbus, Stillwater, Hardin and Big Horn Counties.

Eight editions of this directory have been published at regular intervals every two years. This is the first annual issue, making the ninth edition of the work, covering a period of 17 years.

The population of this region has grown enormously since the issue of the first directory and the directory has grown too. It is covering now many times as much territory as it did when first issued. The territory embraced in this work has about the same area as the State of Connecticut. It is a real empire in itself, possessing marvelous resources and opportunities for development and at no distant day it will be one of the most important localities in the world.

This directory is novel in many respects, because it is a directory of both city and country folk. There are many complete city directories in this volume and there are also many complete farmers' directories embraced herein, so that the combination brings the city and country folk together in free and easy communication. It enables the people in the city to exchange their wares with those in the country and it enables the people in the country to exchange their products with the people in the city. It is the happiest and most useful combination known in directory annals.

The city directory of each city and village gives the name of every adult person in alphabetical order, with their occupation, business location and dwelling of each.

The country directory gives the names of all the farmers, the number of acres, assessed valuation and postoffice address.

In both town and country the directory shows who the people are, what they do, where they work and where they live. It is really a wonderful publication.

In the third and last section of the work is catalogued a list of everything that is made and sold in the city and country in all of these counties. It shows the persons engaged in these lines and is a complete trade directory of every line. It is the greatest buyers' and sellers' guide in the world, because every service that is offered in the county is here presented at a glance, with the persons engaged in them.

There is a vast fund of miscellaneous information in the front of the work, showing the government of city, county and state, the banks and their officers, the churches and their denominations, societies and their purposes and all the institutions and organizations of the people. It is the real work of the people and they are all represented and interested in it.

The old maxim, "Every man to his own trade" applies with full force to directory making, for there is no line of human effort where experience is more necessary.

It is no small task to gather this vast fund of information, containing about four million items of facts, but ample facilities for the work are maintained.

The publishers take pleasure in extending their thanks for the liberal patronage bestowed upon the work and for the courtesy shown their representatives.

Respectfully,

R. L. POLK & CO.

January, 1917.

BILLINGS

BILLINGS. Pop. 17,901. Yellowstone county. Is a prosperous city and the county seat on the Yellowstone river, the N P, C B & Q and G N Rys, 238 miles e of Helena, 892 w of St. Paul, and 687 n w of Denver. Transcontinental trains pass through Billings on each of these railways. It is the distributing point for coal, wool and fruit of a wide area. There are here a sugar plant, two grain elevators, flour mill, iron foundry, vehicle factory, creamery, packing house, brewery, pickling plant, mattress, sash, door and interior finishing factories, 3 brick yards, 2 wholesale hardware, 2 grocery and 2 wholesale fruit houses which mark Billings as the manufacturing and distributing center of eastern Montana and give steady employment to its thrifty and constantly growing population. Its proximity to coal deposits, its unrivaled water supply and its connections with the electric currents of the falls of the Missouri add to its importance and attractiveness to manufacturers. A large polytechnic school, excellent public schools, church organizations of all denominations and a fine public library speak of the care the good people of Billings have for the coming generations. Excellent electric light service, an adequate water system, a complete sewerage system, a good fire department and an electric interurban and suburban street railway system stamp it as a progressive town. Well edited and conducted newspapers the Gazette and the Journal (daily), the Times and Labor News (weekly), the Gazette (semi-weekly), are published. Exp Adams, Northern and G N. Tel W U. STREET AND AVENUE GUIDE.

Explanation.

On referring to this Directory it will be noticed that the names of the streets and avenues follow each other in strictly alphabetical order without regard to location.

For house numbering purposes, the city is divided into three divisions, known as the North Side, South Side, and West Side. The Northern Pacific right-of-way is the dividing line between the North and South Sides; and Division Street is the dividing line between the North Side and the West Side. The numerical streets and avenues on the North Side are designated as North 27th Street and 1st Avenue North; those on the South Side as South 27th Street and 1st Avenue South.
The numbers run 100 to a block, the even numbers being found on the south and west sides and the odd numbers on the north and east sides of all streets and avenues.

On the West Side, the streets running north and south, west of Division Street are designated as 1st Street West, 2nd Street West, and so on. On the Avenues, the numbers between 1 and 100 are located between Division Street and First Street West; the numbers between 100 and 200 are located between First Street West and Second Street West; and so on. The avenues going north from Broadwater (Broadwater being the avenue immediately south of the Hospital) are Wyoming, Yellowstone, Clark, Lewis, Burlington, Alderson, Grand Ave. or Avenue A, Avenue B, Avenue C, and so on. The avenues going south from Broadwater are Custer, Terry, Miles, Howard, Cook, St. John's and County Road. On the streets, the house numbers between 0 and 100 are found between the County Road and St John's Ave; the numbers between 100 and 200 are found between St John's Ave. and Cook Ave; the numbers between 200 and 300 are found between Cook Ave. and Howard Ave., and so on. The even numbers are on the south and west sides, and the odd numbers on the north and east sides of the streets and avenues.

YELLOWSTONE COUNTY

Yellowstone County, of which Billings is the county seat, has an area of 2,232 square miles, having lost a large amount of its territory through county divisions, and until another federal census is taken, exact statistics as to population will not be available. It is estimated that the county has about 30,000 population.

It is traversed across its center by the Yellowstone river and is one of the richest counties in the state. A large amount of irrigated land makes its agriculture extremely important. Its chief products are agriculture and stock raising. It is estimated that about 60 per cent of the land is given to agricultural land, and the remainder used for grazing purposes.

LAUREL.

Is located in the valley of the Yellowstone at the junction of the main line of the N P Ry and the Red Lodge branch of the same road and C B & Q Ry, 15 miles s w of Billings, Contiguous to her is the most prolific and productive agricultural area of Montana, the principal products thereof consisting of cereals, fruit and sugar beets. From all these tremendous yields are obtained, the beet fields largely maintaining the sugar factory located some 16 miles east of us, and our fruit growing in both flavor and quality that produced in the most favored regions of either Washington or Oregon. As the terminal division point of the N P Ry, with one of the largest and most modern roundhouses to be found in the entire West, with a railway payroll averaging from $25,000 to $40,000 per month and constantly increasing, our city derives from this source a revenue of tremendous importance.

The city administration of Laurel have finished the construction of a waterworks and sewerage plant on an elaborate scale, and with the completion of this public utility enterprise this city has become one of the most desirable residence towns to be found in the entire state.

The most salubrious climatic conditions prevail in Laurel and the surrounding country, thus adding to its manifold attractions. Public school system on the accredited list and one of the best in the state. Has 2 banks, 5 hotels, a creamery, a flour mill and electric lights. A weekly newspaper, the Outlook is published. Thos A Rigney, postmaster.

Population 6,000. The county seat of Carbon county, situated at an altitude of a little over a mile, in a protected "draw" where the scenic Rock Creek canyon cuts the s e wall of the Beartooth mountains. It is the terminal station of the Rocky Fork and Cooke City branch of the N P R y 44 miles south of the main line at Laurel, 69 s w of Billings, 13 directly north of the Wyoming boundary and 36 directly east of Yellowstone Park boundary. Mount Maurice, within the Beartooth National Forest, overlooks the end of Red Lodge's main street, and Silver Run Mountain, 42, 350 feet high is visible from parts of the town, and accessible in half a day by pony.

The city is supported by the mining industry centered in this section of the county, by agricultural resources for which it provides a trade outlet, and by other activities, present and of assured promise. Rock Creek is an important water power undeveloped, and the climatic and topographical advantages of the location bring it into prominence among the more recently "discovered" meccas of the tourist and alpinist. A road program is being pushed by residents and friends of Red Lodge, which includes an automobile entrance to Yellowstone Park across the intervening sixty travelled miles of glacial mountains, and also a connection of the Lincoln Highway at Chesterne with the Yellowstone Trail or National Parks Highway, at Columbus on the Yellowstone River and main line of the N P R y. This connection of the two principal northern trunk lines of automobile travel by a route leading north and south along the east face of the Rocky Mountains, adds to Red Lodge's position as a branch line railway terminal, that of a division point on a through automobile highway. The connecting link of road is being marked and advertised as the Black and Yellow Trail from Cody to Columbus, Mont.

Physically, Red Lodge is equipped with modern devices for comfort, sanitation and the transaction of business. The business section is of brick and cement. There are good schools, including a handsome County High School, and the school administration is able. Sewerage system is adequate. Streets are cluster-lighted. The drinking water is shipped out commercially because of its purity. It is of record that a sample of Rock Creek water submitted to an eminent eastern chemist was returned with the skeptical comment that he could not be joked by being sent distilled water for analysis.

Climatically, Red Lodge represents the intermediate; it is 5548 feet high—not an excessive altitude; precipitation averages 20 inches—not excessively dry; there is plenty of sunshine in winter and enough rain in summer. There is always some warm weather in winter and some cold weather in summer. The average number of days in the year when some precipitator is recorded is 82. Real sunshine prevails for the other 233 days. Winters are sometimes mild and sometimes severe, but in all years and at all seasons it is an "outdoor" climate, hard on people with sub-normal hearts and good for everybody else.

The payroll of the two mines in Red Lodge and 4 mines in the tributary "camps" of Bear Creek and Washoe, combine in approximation of two million dollars annually. Bank deposits are a million and three quarters for the three banks of Red Lodge Churches, lodges, mercantile stocks and the usual enterprises and institutions of a good town, are well represented. There are two weekly newspapers and an active, responsible Chamber of Commerce. Exp North ern, Tel W U, John Dunn, postmaster.

CARBON COUNTY

Carbon County is the central county of Montana's southernmost tier. Its area is about 3,500 square miles, and it extends from the Yellowstone River on the north to the Wyoming line on the south. Its southwestern corner is almost contiguous with the northeastern corner of Yellowstone Park, and the Beartooth National Forest lies in large part within Carbon County. Topographically, a wide range of conditions obtains in Carbon County. The Beartooth and Granite Mountains traversing the southwest part of the county, contain the highest peaks in Montana, and being glacial in character, supply their vast snowfields and natural reservoirs an unfailing volume of water for the many streams flowing down their northeastern shed to the main and Clarks Fork branches of the Yellowstone. The lowest altitudes of the county are about 3,000 feet. The Yellowstone River, and the rolling prairies and benches of the agricultural part of the county slope in a general southwest-northeast direction upward until at the altitude averaging 6,000 feet, they break abruptly against the wall of the mountains.

The natural resources of the county include agriculture, coal, water power, timber, precious and semi-precious ores; to which it is now apparent that oil will be added. Development is advanced beyond the experimental stage in the directions indicated, and to a marked extent in some of them.

Climatic conditions are diverse, resulting in a considerable variety in the character of farms and ranches. Crops are hays, wheat, oats and barley on the uplands, with large cattle and sheep ranges; and in the river bottoms the many forms of husbandry possible with plenty of water and warmer and longer growing seasons, are successfully practiced. The range of the county's products of the soil extends from wool to cantaloupes and corn. Sugar beets are important in the northeast section, marketing at the Billings factory. Irrigation is had by private creek rights and by incorporated ditch companies, but is not needed, nor indeed preferred, on a large proportion of the grain and stock ranches. Annual precipitation averages 20 inches, with 82 days in the year marked by some fall of rain or snow.

BILLINGS
Government land has not as yet been all claimed and patented.

Deposits of coal, of a semi-bituminous nature and high grade of heat units, are being mined at Red Lodge, Bearcreek and Bridger. The supply is practically inexhaustible so far as present calculations affect values, and the payroll now maintained is about two million dollars annually. The county's production for the year ending October 31, 1916, was 1,618,579 tons, of which the Red Lodge mines produced 1,042,065 tons.

The ores of the mountains include gold, silver, copper and lead and are abundant; but full development has not been possible for lack of transportation. With the opening of the country by automobile highways, transportation difficulties are disappearing, and the hopes of prospectors in the southwest portion of the county for the establishment of important mining camps, are bright after forty years of deferment.

The Beartooth National Forest contains large stands of soft timber, but save for a considerable industry in supplying prop poles for the mines, the lumbering possibilities of the county remain practically untouched.

The water power in Carbon County, unmeasured, and almost without limit because of the perpetual supply of water falling from the great altitudes of the plateau region—from 9,000 to 12,000 feet, with peaks running almost to 13,000 feet—will go to waste until requirements of population for manufacturing purposes, and the electrification of transportation, call it into use. It is waiting for the harness.

Recent experimentation in the oil fields of the county has caused much local excitement, and has attracted many thousands of dollars of eastern capital. Producing wells have been drilled and capped, and large commercial successes in this development seem sure.

In general, the position of Carbon County on the eastern face of the Rockies, on the natural line of travel afforded by the valley of the Yellowstone, at the natural point of juncture, north-and-south, of the Yellowstone travel with that of transcontinental routes lying further south, places it doubly before the attention of travelers, settlers and investors who are turning in increasing numbers from the more crowded sections of the United States to the new Northwest. The highest of Montana's mountains here, with their unsurpassed scenery, camping and fishing grounds, of themselves constitute one of the state's most prominent direct and indirect assets.

Red Lodge, the county seat, maintains an active Chamber of Commerce equipped to supply authoritative information.

COLUMBUS

Columbus, the county seat of Stillwater County, is a growing city of about 1,000 people. It is located on the main line of the Northern Pacific Ry in the Yellowstone Valley, 41 miles south of Billings and geographically it could not have been more centrally located to serve the people of Stillwater County and its county seat. It is the distributing point for all the smaller inland towns lying both north and south of the railroad.

It is elegantly lighted by electricity and has unlimited power service for domestic and commercial use. It has excellent water service.

It has all kinds of mercantile houses, and substantial banks. The religious organizations are well represented. The Masonic, Odd Fellows, Modern Woodmen, Woodmen of the World and Redmen lodges are well represented and have elegant and commodious lodge rooms. The Stillwater Club, a commercial and social organization, have most elegantly furnished club rooms and a large membership, and a hearty welcome is always extended to strangers. Columbus has the distinction of having one of the best public schools in the state.

It has two thrifty newspapers, the News and the Democrat. Both have able men at the helm and give the public better reading and their advertisements more publicity than the ordinary country town weekly paper.

Among its residences are many beautiful and modern homes. Cement sidewalks and crossings are laid over the entire town and the streets are well graveled.

Its trade zone reaches a radius of over 30 miles in every direction, and from a business point of view Columbus has at present better opportunities than most of the towns in the state. Exp Northern. Tel W U. Jas P Lavelle postmaster.

STILLWATER COUNTY

Stillwater county was created by the vote of the people within the confines of its boundaries in a special election held on March 15th, 1913, being formed from portions of the old counties of Yellowstone, Carbon and Sweet Grass. Its area is something like 47 townships or approximately 1,000,000 acres. While its area is not equal to most of the counties in the state, it probably has within its confines more acres of productive tillable land than any other county in the state. The southern portion is composed of the rich valleys of the Stillwater and the Rosebud rivers and the productive bench lands of the Shane, Joe Hill, White Bird and Countryman creeks divides, while the extreme southern portion of the county extends into the rich coal and ore fields of the Beartooth range of the Rocky Mountains. This portion of the county is also noted for its beautiful scenery, fine trout fishing and excellent hunting grounds.

The historic Yellowstone river crosses the county through the middle portion, giving many acres of fertile irrigated land raising bounteous crops of all kinds of grain, alfalfa and fruits. To the north it has the fertile divides of the White Beaver, Kayser, Hensley and Valley creeks and the vast empire of level land known as the Great Lake Basin which consists of some of the best agricultural land found anywhere in the West.

As a whole Stillwater county is an agricultural county with a great future. Alfalfa is the king of the irrigated crops, with oats, other small grains, fruits and vegetables next in importance. With an average rainfall of from 18 to 24 inches a year, and the fertility of the soil makes the bench and non-irrigated lands produce bounteous crops of winter wheat, flax, barley and oats, not surpassed anywhere in the state for yield and quality. Cattle, horses, sheep and hogs are also extensively raised, and dairying will eventually be an important factor. Climatic conditions are ideal, while the summer days are warm, the nights are always cool on account of the altitude and the winters are milder than any other portion of the United States in the same latitude, excepting the West coast.
Following is a completely alphabetically arranged list of all towns, villages, postoffices and railway stations in Yellowstone County. Business firms and all individual names will be found under their respective postoffices. Farmers and farm tenants names will be found under the heading of Residents and Farmers.

Publicity is absolutely essential to your business. The directory offers the best means of obtaining it, and the price is right.
Hardin, the principal market point and county seat of Big Horn county, is a rapidly growing town on the Burlington Ry, 58 miles east of Billings. It is located about one mile west of the west bank of the Big Horn river, nearly opposite from where the Little Big Horn river flows into the Big Horn. While it was a thriving town at the time it was chosen county seat, it has made rapid advancement since that time, now numbering about 1500 souls. Various business and social enterprises are represented, including two grain elevators, two banks, a newspaper, an opera house, a hotel, churches, a splendid public school, a public library, the Hardin Community Club, a hospital, alfalfa products and flour mills. The town has an electric light plant and water system.

An enterprise which will contribute largely to the future growth of Hardin and contiguous territory is that of the Big Horn Canyon Irrigation & Power Company, a corporation organized to develop the immense water power of the Big Horn river. In addition to the electric power to be generated by harnessing the river, the company proposes to irrigate a large area—some 125,000 acres—of bench land adjacent to Hardin. The town is growing rapidly in population and this is due somewhat to the splendid public school system and the public library. The diversity of industries adds greatly to the prosperity of the people. The farming industry is growing every year as more land is brought under cultivation, as all grains, grasses and root crops grow readily, ripen before frost and make abundant yields. The greater portion of the lands under the ceded strip have passed into the hands of private owners, yet there are a few additional homesteads opened from time to time and opportunities to purchase excellent deeded farm and ranch lands at reasonable prices are abundant; but, as the country grows and production increases so will land prices advance.

PARK CITY - MONT.
BIG HORN COUNTY, MONTANA

Big Horn county, created from portions of Yellowstone and Rosebud counties in 1913. It has an area of about 5,000 square miles and an assessed valuation in round figures of $5,000,000. The development of the territory embraced in this county has been very rapid.

Even in its infancy, the soils of Big Horn county produce wonderful crops. The dry land produces wheat which grades No. 1 Northern and consequently demands the highest market price per bushel. As the cultivated area increases from year to year, Big Horn county will shortly take its place in the front rank of the grain producing counties of the state. From the waters of the Big Horn and Little Big Horn rivers, with sufficient water to irrigate some 200,000 acres or more of land—about 125,000 acres of the same now being under cultivation. Irrigation assures the production of crops without any thought of failure and the long growing season makes it possible to mature crops here, such as corn, tomatoes, melons of all kinds and kindred crops which a few years ago it was thought impossible to grow successfully in this state, and the yield per acre is much greater than can be grown in other sections of the intermountain country. Sugar beets thrive here as nowhere else, as do potatoes and all kinds of vegetables, as well as all kinds of grains and grasses. The "Pride of Big Horn County" is "King Alfalfa," which grows as though wild, day and night, in sunshine or clouds, and produces from four to seven tons per acre, in three and many times four cuttings per season. No more do we wonder where we will market this crop, for the quality of Big Horn county alfalfa is known afar in the world.

In addition to the irrigated lands there are hundreds of thousands of acres of dry or bench lands of great producing properties. Many experienced farmers have demonstrated during the past five years that "dry farming," as it is termed, can be carried on profitably, regardless of the amount of rainfall, and with as great a percentage of profit on the investment as ordinary farming under irrigation. Throughout the bench lands of the county the average rainfall is greater than in most portions of the state, which accounts in a measure for the increased production over other sections. Above the dry farm lands are thousands of acres of hill lands which afford untold pasturage for grazing purposes. In some section these lands are used in common by the resident farmers.

In addition to Hardin the county contains the following thriving towns: Crow Agency, 13 miles east of Hardin, headquarters for the government officers managing the Crow Indian reservation; St Xavier, 23 miles south of Hardin, where the Jesuit fathers maintain an Indian school; Lodge Grass, a thriving little town about 36 miles east of Hardin; Wyola, in the extreme southeastern portion of the county, and Foster, 16 miles north of Hardin. Extensive stock interests are maintained in the range country tributary to Kirby, Sarpy, Decker, and generally throughout the eastern and northeastern portions of the county, where thousands of cattle, horses and sheep are ranged.
